GERMANY THE HORRIBLE

Her Treatment of Belgium Meets the Execution of the World.

Germany seems as if driven by a malignant fate to make the ruin of her national reputation in Belgium. The original invasion shocked the world, and left a moral gulf between Germany and other nations which she has never been able to bridge. To this fact the German Government has shown evidence of being sensitive, and has sought to make its military administration of Belgium both efficient and respectable. But now comes the wholesale deportations of the workmen of Belgium to put Germany once more in collision with the humane sentiments of the world. No wonder that the worst suspicions are current, and that few believe the virtuous profession put forward in defense of this virtual enslaving of thousands of Belgians. Even if this be true that they will be set to no work directly military they will take the place of Germans who will then be released for the army. No quibble can excuse an act which is not only in clearest violation of the rules of civilized war, but is also a direct insult to the humanity of the world. The German Government, by its action, is not only a disgrace to the German nation, but it is a disgrace to the world. The German Government, by its action, is not only a disgrace to the German nation, but it is a disgrace to the world. The German Government, by its action, is not only a disgrace to the German nation, but it is a disgrace to the world.

THE KIND OF A TOWN

Editor of The Courier-Gazette:—I once attended a banquet of the Boston Rotary Club at the Hotel Lenox, at which one of the speakers was an ex-President, and a real live wire. The speaker was "Service," and he was speaking especially of service to one's own town. "Boost it," he said, "don't knock it," and he recited the following lines which apply to any town:

If you want to live in the kind of a town
Like the kind of a town you like,
You needn't slip your clothes in a grip
And start on a long tramp from the West.
You'll only find what you're left behind,
Four or five million miles away.
It's a knock at your door when you knock your town.
It isn't the town—it's you.
Real towns are not made by men afraid
Lest somebody else gets ahead.
When everyone works and nobody shirks
You can take a town from the West.
And if, while you make your personal stake
Your neighbors can make one, too,
Your town will be what you want to see—
It isn't the town—it's you!

SAD EFFECTS OF PROHIBITION

"Consumption of liquor steadily increases notwithstanding spread of dry territory," is the caption of an article sent out by the publicity department of The National Wholesale Liquor Dealers Association of America. If that is true, why are the liquor dealers spending hundreds of thousands of dollars to prevent the spread of dry territory?—Belfast Journal.

Study Food Values

Food provided for the family table deserves the careful thought of every housewife. Do you use thought when buying baking powder?

The quality of cake, biscuits and all quickly raised flour foods depends largely upon the kind of baking powder used.

Royal Baking Powder is made from cream of tartar derived from grapes. It is absolutely pure and has proved its excellence for making food of finest quality and wholesomeness for generations.

Royal Baking Powder contains no alum nor phosphate.

"SPLENDID" MINCE PIES

Take You Right Back To Your Childhood—John Bird Co. Will Invade Boston and New York Markets.

Oh, for mince pies like mother used to make.

How often you hear that yearning expression. It is an appeal from the stomach, but comes straight from the heart—for if there is one reminder of the good old-fashioned days which modern comforts and modern progress have not served to eradicate it is the New England mince pie. The high-spirited chef who caters to the daily appetites of the rich man and the epicure, has never found a pastry substitute to displace the mince pies that mother used to make.

John Bird Co. gave the subject most careful study before putting on the market its "Splendid" brand of mince meat. In manufacturing it for home consumption before attempting to place it on the general market, the company gave the mince meat its severest test. Rockland housewives have unhesitatingly given it their stamp of approval, and although the factory of Tufts Avenue is turning out 50 cases a day, it cannot keep pace with the local demand. The trade mark "Splendid" is certainly not a misnomer, as all can testify who have sniffed the aroma of one of these mince pies in the oven, or given it the test which is said to be the proof of the pudding.

There is one other test, come to think of it. How often do you hear it remarked about gaudy goods that if you should see the work done you wouldn't eat the product? It is a popular fallacy to suppose that canneries use only cheap materials, put up by poorly paid and unskilled operatives. The truth of the matter is that a modern canning factory uses better sanitary precautions than are found in a majority of the home kitchens. Why? Because competition demands it.

The John Bird Co. invites the public to inspect its factory at any time when it is in operation. The Courier-Gazette reporter availed himself of this privilege Saturday, and believes that the public will agree with him with conditions could hardly be more satisfactory.

Possibly you think that a cheap grade of beef is used in making this mince meat. Go then with the superintendent to the cold storage room, where have many hunches of the finest beef that the company can buy. Suspended from the hooks the day of the reporter's visit were the carcasses of a 500-pound cow, bought from Decker of Waldoboro; a 470-pound cow bought from Samuel Fuller of Union, and an 800-pound ox, bought from Enos Ingraham of Rockport.

The meat is cooked one day and ground the next. The cooking occupies two hours, and a special grinder is used in converting it into pie material. There is also a patent apple chopper, which cores and pares a barrel of apples in about four minutes. Number one apples are used. They are carefully washed, but are not pared, for the reason that the apple peellings give a choice flavor that is not to be obtained from the pared apple.

With the chopped meat, suet and apple are mixed the Splendid brand of raisins and currants—the best obtainable—several varieties of fragrant spices, and the necessary amount of vinegar and molasses. Mercy me! But what a fragrant odor it makes when this wonderful concoction is in the sizzling jacket cooker. The mince meat is cooked two hours before sealing, and after being placed in the sealed cans is boiled an hour. It is then ready for the label, and the receptive public.

The company is at present using a No. 3 can, which holds enough for two generous pies, and which retails for 30 cents. Eight persons are employed at present, but next season the John Bird Co. plans to increase the output to 500 cases a day, and will employ from 40 to 50 hands. For the Boston and New York markets it is planned to pack the mince meat in gallon cans for the convenience of hotels and restaurants. The season for canning mince meat begins the middle of November and lasts through the winter.

CLOSE IN ARIZONA

Thomas Campbell, Republican, was elected Governor of Arizona at the recent election by a plurality of 32 votes over Governor George P. Hunt, according to official figures announced Monday. The law providing for total prohibition was adopted by a majority of nearly 12,000 and capital punishment was abolished by a majority of 152 votes.

The official vote of New Hampshire shows that the Wilson electors had a margin of 57 votes.

Talk of the Town

A torpedo boat destroyer, probably from Cramps' yard, is due here for trial next week. Members of the Trial Board, and their assistants, have engaged rooms at Hotel Rockland and the Narragansett Hotel.

The despatches announce that the employees of the Hazard shoe factory in Gardiner are to have a 10 per cent increase in wages, effective next Monday. Among the 1000 operatives who will be benefited are a number who formerly worked in the Warren factory.

The vital statistics report for last year offers little comfort to Knox county, which proved to be one of the counties having a very high death rate and a low birth rate. Divorces do not figure in the vital statistics analysis, but Knox county is never far behind in that respect.

John Lovejoy has been reappointed a member of the State Board of Accountancy. Other nominations included in Gov. Curtis' latest batch are: F. G. French, Rockland, Alvah M. Chadwick, Portland, James E. Mulligan, Damariscotta and William P. Fossett, Damariscotta, fish wardens.

The westbound State of Maine express from Portland now leaves Union Station at 8:35 p. m. daily, including Sundays, due to arrive Grand Central Terminal, New York, at 7:35 a. m., as at present. Local patrons make this connection, leaving here on the Sunday morning paper train, and will find it quite a convenience.

Cheered by its success in football, Rockland High School is going into basketball this winter, and expects to have a team which will produce results. Rogers was elected captain last night. Joseph Sawyer, who gave excellent satisfaction as football manager, under difficult circumstances, will also manage the basketball team. The schedule has not been arranged.

David Scribner Hyler, formerly of this city, has been appointed assistant manager of the New Hotel Holden in Dayton, Ohio. Mr. Hyler has been with the Portland Hotel in Grand Rapids, Mich., and the French Springs Hotel in French Lick, Ind. His valuable experience in the hotel game will equip him for this responsible position in one of the best hostleries to be found in Ohio.

H. S. Hobbs, the veteran roofer, was down-town yesterday with a story of having been cooped up four weeks with lumbago. It takes a pretty vigorous opponent to down him for that length of time, and he came out yesterday with a determination to "walk it off." Mr. Hobbs has another incentive to get back in trim, for he has engaged passage on the steamer Savannah sailing one week from next Saturday from Boston. Mr. and Mrs. Hobbs will again spend the winter in Lakeland, Fla., and are arranging to rent their house on Granite street meantime. Their Camden friends, the Harveys, have already gone to Lakeland, and their letters, like the call of the wild, are making Mr. and Mrs. Hobbs anxious to hasten their departure.

ENGLAND AGAINST ALCOHOL

Distinguished Men Call For Drink Licenses To Be Abolished.

That England is soon to initiate Germany in setting up a Food Dictator was virtually announced in Parliament on Wednesday of last week. It is a measure born not of present distress, but of precaution for the future. The Government takes this way of notifying the people that they are in for a long period of war, and that they must make the necessary sacrifices, and neglect no step to economize the national resources. No mention was made by the President of the Board of Trade of the extraordinary appeal recently addressed to the Government by one thousand of the most distinguished persons in the kingdom. It was signed by a score of admirals, dozens of generals, hundreds of leaders in finance, industry, medicine, education, literature, and art. And what did they ask? That the Government "withdraw all drink licenses throughout the kingdom for the period of the war." The argument in favor of such a course is well known. It has often been put forward in England since the war broke out. Not simply the money-cost, but the labor-cost and the transportation-cost of the drink habit are dwelt upon. England has to strike the mightiest blow possible in the war, and finds herself weakened in both purse and efficiency by drink. The signers of the petition say that they are not "temperance reformers as such," but they believe the nation is ready, and should be called upon, to do what France and Russia have already done—that is, take off "the brake of alcohol" from the energies of England.—The Nation.

YOUR FAVORITE POEM

Old-fashioned poetry, but choicely good.
—Isaac Walton.

Early Winter

The waking year looks gently down
On these bright days that come and go,
Dead, faded, buried in the snow,
That summer were, with face aglow,
When June stepped lightly o'er the hills
And through the vale went hastening rills.

Those blissful days come back to chase
The gloom from chill December skies;
Their fragrance lingers yet to grace
Paths where all tender blossoms die—
Where the brown earth, with snail-shell breast,
Prepares to take its long, deep rest.

Through naked boughs the sunlight stiffs,
And gives them beauty all their own;
Nor yet the feathery snowflakes drifts
Through silent woods, on moss and stone;
The hallowed hush, the softened hue,
Weave their own nameless charm anew.

The old year wanes; the birds of spring
Now gladden other skies than ours;
No bud unfolds, no insect wing—
Sends tribute to these hasting hours;
But plaintive voices stir below
Their shadowed and unceasing flow.

Thought wanders back, and groups anew
All that each yearning soul and fair—
The loves, the hopes that upward grew
And spread in faith's dimmer air;
But perished as the days went by,
Even as the flowers that round us lie.

We know that spring will come, and bring
Again earth's need of song and bloom;
We know, too, that another spring
Hath somewhere in God's garden, room
Where love shall find its own, nor miss
One drop from its pure draught of bliss.
—Mrs. Hannah Jane Lewis.

TWO-A-WEEK.

CIRCULATION AFFIDAVIT

Rockland, December 8, 1916.
Personally appeared Neil S. Perry, who on oath declares: That he is president in the office of the Rockland Publishing Co., and that of the said of The Courier-Gazette of December 5, 1916, there was printed a total of 2,710 copies.
Before me
J. W. CROCKER,
Notary Public.

The wholesome enforcement of law in Rockland has received, as it has merited, the commendation of law-abiding citizens, not only here at home, but at points remote and widely separated. The good name of our city, which in the past had suffered, has in no inconsiderable degree been restored to a point where citizens indulge in a feeling of pride when commendation is offered. The recent going upon the water wagon of still other of the States marks the driving of additional nails into the coffin in which no sane man doubts the liquor traffic is one day to be buried. Nothing more significant in this line has been presented than the great accession to the dry vote in Massachusetts Monday, when four additional cities got out of the wet column and in the few that remained there the license vote was greatly reduced. With these cheering signs multiplying on every hand the good government forces in Maine may well feel their courage strengthened. It is now some time since the Rockland Good Government Association got its members together. Wouldn't it be a profitable idea to have another of those get-together meetings of the members, to discuss achievements to date and renew allegiance to the principles which have united the citizens in a purpose to see the laws impartially enforced.

The Maine Central Railroad is to lose no time in clearing up the site for its new station at the corner of Union and Pleasant streets. A deal was completed yesterday whereby Leslie N. Little, the well known grain merchant, becomes the possessor of four houses on Pleasant street, and will move them at once onto his land on Park street, where they will be fitted up as tenements. The properties included in this deal are the F. H. Sanborn, John L. Snow and Jere Sullivan houses and the Estabrook stable. President McDonald, General Manager Douglas and Director E. P. Ricker were here Wednesday looking over the situation.

Miss Fletcher, a trained nurse from the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital, Boston, will be in this city next Thursday to instruct the surgical dressings committee new methods of making dressings. The ladies are asked to be at the Baptist parish room at 40 a. m. A basket luncheon is being planned, so that the work may be continuous. No meeting will be held on the regular day, the 12th, but will be on the 14th, to accommodate the nurse. The next regular meeting will be held Dec. 19.

It was the intention to take up and transplant a 30 foot Norway maple that stood too close to Capt. E. A. Butler's house on Beech street—a small task, but Fred A. Blackington and crew successfully dug out a great ball of the roots and laid the tree on its side, preparatory to removal, when a big limb split off and so the tree will go into firewood. "Norway maple is a wood that splits so easily that it's difficult to handle," says Mr. Blackington.

Miriam Rebekah Lodge held a meeting Tuesday evening, presided over by circle supper. Mrs. Nellie Wade was chairman of the supper committee. During the evening Mrs. Nellie Stewart entertained the lodge with a reading, which was delivered in her usual pleasing manner. Several applications for membership were received and the lodge is preparing for work at the next meeting, when officers will be elected.

The October issue of the Yale Sheffield Monthly gave the place of honor to a Rockland boy, David H. Buffum, Yale '18, whose story, "Pieces of Eight," it describes as "a humorous story of youthful love affair which is not without parallel in the lives of many." Mr. Buffum's stories have been several times featured in that college publication, as readers of The Courier-Gazette will recall.

The officers of Claremont Commandery, K. T., will be installed next Monday night by Eminent Sir James A. Richan. Light refreshments will be served after the ceremonies. An orchestra will be in attendance to furnish music for dancing and other social festivities. All Sir Knights are requested to appear in full Templar uniform.

The one-day campaign is the way to raise the church money. Rockland's Universalists are the latest to demonstrate this piece of financial truth. It's a long way ahead of the old fashion of dragging along in debt and no Rockland church that has once set up the system will ever let it go.

James E. Brennan of Port Clyde has been nominated by Gov. Curtis as commissioner of wrecks for Knox county. Mr. Brennan suffered a very serious physical misfortune a few months ago, and his appointment to an office in which he certainly has expert knowledge, is very gratifying.

These new subscribers have been added to the service of the New England Telephone Company in this city: J. A. Blackman, residence, 25 Suffolk street, 538-11; B. C. Perry, office, 722 Main street, 684; D. O. Smiley, residence, 219 Rankin street, 538-1.

Park street residents are delighted with the permanent improvements which have been made the past year, and the City Council is now giving them an opportunity to chip in for the expense of it, at the rate of $1.45 1/2 a running foot.

Americus Hook & Ladder Co. will have its annual levee and ball Christmas night in Haverhill Hall. A gift ticket will be offered.

Dr. H. E. Gribbin and George W. Smith have bought Cadillac 7-passenger touring cars, through George M. Simmons' agency.

Miss Edith Bicknell announces her annual sale of unusual Christmas gifts at Burkett's Food Shop, 437 Main street, Friday and Saturday, Dec. 8 and 9. Attractive 25 cent table.

It made here at home—the Splendid brand of mince meat.

The Universalist Bell Rang

There Was Good Cause For It, You Will Agree, After Reading This—Baptist Christmas Sale.

Ding-dong, ding-dong! The Universalist bell pealed right merrily Wednesday evening, its notes carrying to many ears the glad tidings that the whirlwind campaign had been a success, and that the church debt had been extinguished.

The glad story was told at the close of a very largely attended circle supper, at which were assembled the members of the 18 teams who had put in a busy day in the highways and the by-ways, letting no man or woman escape who was willing to help along the good cause.

You see, it was like this. Eight prominent members of the church had pledged $100 apiece, conditional upon a similar total being raised in other ways. A challenge like that might go unheeded in some churches, but not the one with the smiling pastor—the Church of Immanuel.

Percy L. Roberts was organizer, head coach and trainer. Attendees-vous this lineup:

Team 1—William Talbot and R. V. Stevenson.

Team 2—Seabrooke W. Gregory and Frank L. Weeks.

Team 3—H. O. Gurdy and Clarence E. Daniels.

Team 4—E. F. Berry and Wilbur S. Cross.

Team 5—George L. St. Clair and James E. Jenkins.

Team 6—Arthur Lamb and Albert T. Thurston.

Team 7—Henry H. Payson.

Team 8—William F. Tibbetts and Merritt A. Johnson.

Team 9—H. Nelson McDougall.

Team 10—Edward C. Payson and J. S. W. Burpee.

Team 11—Oliver B. Lovejoy and William L. Benner.

Team 12—Edward W. Berry and Walter H. Spear.

Team 13—Edward R. Veazie and Fred C. Black.

Team 14—Albert C. McLoon and Blanchard D. Smith.

Team 15—Sherman Daniels and Chas. Wotton.

Team 16—Fred A. Thorndike and David Talbot.

Team 17—Ralph B. Loring and L. P. Chase.

It was almost to be expected that David Talbot and P. A. Thorndike would make the best showing, and so they did, their day's receipts being $162. But it was a close shave for this whirlwind pair, however, as the team comprising E. W. Berry and W. H. Spear turned in only $1 less.

Especially good work was done by the pony team—Daniels and Wotton—which raced under the wire with $75.75 between the bits.

The total receipts were $1819.35, which so far exceeds the required amount that the church may now go ahead with some necessary repairs and improvements, among which may be noted the painting of the building and the repairing of the heating apparatus.

Now, can you blame those loyal workers for ringing the bells?

CHRISTMAS SALE A SUCCESS

First Baptist Ladies Turn $370 Into Treasury After Affair Was Over.

The Christmas sale, given by the ladies of the First Baptist church Wednesday afternoon netted $370, and the results are very gratifying to Mrs. C. F. Simmons, chairman of the fair, and to the members of the committees who had labored so diligently.

The decorations in the vestry, following a color scheme of green and red, found much favor in the eyes of the patrons. Evergreen trees formed the background for the tables, which were arranged in circular form surrounded by arches of poinsettias and poppies, the artificial flowers being kindly loaned by the W. O. Hewitt Co.

Special attention was attracted by the beautiful Chinese embroidery, which was loaned for this occasion by Mrs. A. C. Mather.

A supper which offered such irresistible attractions as chicken pie and lobster salad, was eagerly patronized, and added $60 to the net earnings. Mrs. Jennie Bird was chairman of the supper committee, her assistants being Mrs. Mary Burkett, Mrs. Ernest Hager, Mrs. Rose Harrington, Mrs. Nina Beverage, Mrs. Nellie Prescott and Mrs. C. A. Packard.

The various committees for the Christmas Sale were:

Fancy Table (articles costing more than $1)—Mrs. Sidney Bird, chairman, Mrs. Emma Bird, Mrs. Kathleen Fuller, Miss Carolyn Eskine, Mrs. Grace Crie, Mrs. Evelyn J. Hancocks, Miss Carrie Brainerd, Miss Nancy T. Sleeper and Mrs. Jennie Bird.

One-Dollar Table—Miss Alice Eskine, chairman, Mrs. Nina Beverage, Miss Lucy Karl, Mrs. Gertrude Woodier, Mrs. Brown, Miss Mabel Spear, Miss Blanche Smith, Mrs. Helen Palmer, Miss Eleanor Griffith, Miss Rita Patterson, Miss Wallis, Mrs. Carrie Young, Miss Edith Hall, Miss Marion Pease and Mrs. Asen.

Seventy-Five Cent Table—Miss Jennie Blackington, chairman, Mrs. M. P. Judkins, Mrs. Lowe, Mrs. J. A. Richan, Mrs. E. B. Ingraham, Mrs. Fannie Ryder, Mrs. L. E. Foss, Mrs. Lena Leach, Miss Rita Thompson, Miss Lena Miller and Mrs. Cora Kallio.

Fifty-Cent Table—Mrs. A. H. Newbert, chairman, Mrs. Whitney, Mrs. Laura Maxey, Mrs. Ida Crie, Mrs. Frank Kallio, Mrs. R. C. Hall, Mrs. Hope Brewster, Mrs. E. J. Southard and Mrs. O. W. Condon.

Twenty-Five Cent Table—Mrs. R. S. Sherman, chairman, and Misses Kathleen Ingraham, Christie Bickford, Anna Hall, Helen Patterson, Helen Dillzell, Elsa Hayden, Eda Knowlton, Kathie Keating, Margaret Simmons, Vivian Foss, Helen Fuller, Martha Bartlett, Chloe Fildell and Althea Fildell.

Table—Mrs. Susie Morey chairman.

Ice Cream Table—Mrs. Jordan chairman.

Cake and Pastry Table—Mrs. Bicknell chairman, Mrs. Donald Karl, Mrs. Fred E. Leach, Mrs. Albion S. Palmer, Mrs. Ida Marshall Payson, Mrs. Frank E. Post, Mrs. Winifred Simmons and Miss Sara Harrington.

The managers are very grateful to out of town friends of the church who contributed many articles for the sale.

The Lawrence Canning Company has transferred its office from the factory on Tilton wharf to the office of the Hurricane Isle Quarries Co. at 427 Main street. It is not an easy matter to maintain a warm office in the sardine factory when the plant is not in operation, so the Lawrence brothers and stenographers moved up-town till the season opens.

For Sale Or To Let

The supporting cast of "The Plow Girl" is one of the most distinguished gatherings of film favorites ever assembled in one photoplay, including as it does the popular Lasky players, Elliott Deser, Theodore Roberts, Elythe Chapman, Lillian Leighton and others. Mae Murray, is seen in this production as a farm girl, dressed in the cast-off trousers of Theodore Roberts—an interesting and amusing contrast to her usual immaculate garb.

"Don't miss seeing 'Boys and Girls' as presented by the Bobb Ott Company today only. The farewell bill tomorrow matinee and night is Zam-Zam, which, by the way, Mr. Ott says, is one of his best."

At last Fannie Ward, brilliant Lasky star, who is noted in two hemispheres as being the best dressed actress on the stage has ample opportunity to display some of her famous wardrobe.

In the Jesse L. Lasky production of "The Years of the Locusts" which will be seen at Park Theatre on Monday and Tuesday, beginning with morning negligees, street costumes, afternoon gowns, tea gowns, ball gowns, opera cloaks, driving furs, cunning rocks and even a cute little riding habit, follow each other in quick succession, and all of them the latest conceptions of the principal Parisian modistes.

BOSTON

Boston's Allied Bazaar

A Momentous Undertaking Which Will Interest the People Only Second To the Sunday Campaign.

From the county persons will go to Boston during the next few days without waiting the affair to which The Boston Herald has previously called attention.

From the bleak December weather of New England into a dazzling fairland will be a step in that city during the next few days that the National Allied Bazaar which starts tomorrow night will be conducted. The patron will see Mechanics Building from the southwest stretches of Huntington Avenue and immediately be transported into a shining scene of carnival and festiveness, of warmth and color, of music and laughter, of splendor and magnificence.

Passing through the main entrance at the north of Garrison street and what will be splendidly decorated in keeping with the Christmas season, one passes through a magnificent archway with bunting and brilliant lights to the arcade which is one of the beauty spots of the Bazaar. This great entrance hall of the length of the great hall is arched over at intervals and is a color scheme that is unique. The setting of the Arcade itself is a rich blue and orange and red and stretch from the booths or stalls to be caught together, the whole scene as the roof of the Arcade. The plan of the arcade is to give an impression of an Algerian bazaar. The booths or shops on either side of the street will be attended by young women costumed in keeping with the general scheme. All sorts of articles will be on display at these little shops, although they will not be typical of any particular one of the allied nations. These distinctive booths are placed in another part of the big building.

From the Arcade one enters the market place, a replica of an old Flemish town with all the picturesque features of that quaint section. A large market house has been constructed while surrounding this central building are smaller buildings, one and one half stories high, just like the building in ancient Fleming. The market house will contain many splendid exhibits while in one of its big cupolas a band will hold forth rendering concert music at frequent intervals. In the little buildings will be located many of the booths which are presided over by prominent women and in which young women will act as assistants, ready to sell the articles displayed there and all to help the war sufferers in the lands of the entente. The market place is second to none in attractive features.

From a passageway from the market place one enters the Grand Hall. This will be the great gathering place of the thousands who will patronize the bazaar. It will be a beautiful scene. At each of the four corners of the hall will be a heroic statue. Each is to represent one of the many countries of Europe, Belgium, Serbia, Poland, and Alsace. The idea of the grand hall is something in the line of a reproduction of the Place de la Concorde in Paris, with its bay trees and benches and other distinctive features. In the center of the hall there will be a huge soda fountain.

In this hall is the stage upon which the entertainment will be given and the cafe, which is to be held. The settings of the stage are those of an Italian garden opposite the stage and in the balcony will be placed the orchestra back of which will be the colonnade with a landscape background. On each side of the hall also there will be five flag standards bearing the colors of the allied nations.

On the other sides of the hall will be more booths, each one distinctive and each beautiful in design and display. From the ceilings will be suspended acrobates of the entente nations, and white bunting, making the entire hall a scene of splendor.

Through another street at the north end of the grand hall, one passes to the other booths, some of them devoted to one of the nations at war, some of a general nature. This street of booths will be decorated with warm colors with myriad lights and splendid settings.

The huge war exhibits are staged in the basement of the building while the upper floors are to be more booths, restaurants, and other special features of New England's Million Dollar Fair. Outside the building will be the war trenches constructed by a British army officer, wounded in the service, while the huge "Tank," the newest and most terrible instrument of destruction ever made by man will be shown here for the first time in any land except on the battlefield itself.

Hundreds of prominent society matrons and maidens will be in daily attendance at the Bazaar and at its different booths. It will be a big Christmas carnival, for the most worthy of all causes, the relief of the distress caused by the war.

The Maine booth will be one of the special features. Mrs. William T. Cobb of Rockland is one of the committee in charge. Any person desiring to contribute to the Maine booth of mail or farm are desired to communicate with Mrs. Cobb at once. The object is a splendid one. It is hoped to raise $1,000,000 for the sufferers in the European war zone.

IN OLD NEW HAMPSHIRE

Owl's Head Man Enjoying the Winter in the Granite State.

Editor of The Courier-Gazette:—We are here in Exeter, N. H., for the winter, located on the corner of Front street. On an opposite corner is the Squamscott Hotel and on another corner is the First Church (Congregational) founded in 1638, the building erected in 1798. In its lofty steeple is the town clock, which strikes the hour, and they observe the old-fashioned custom of ringing the bell on all festive occasions—and more too! Exeter beat Andover recently at football and this bell rang for two hours and in the evening the streets swarmed with students marching snake fashion and headed by a band of the Exeter High School. We daily pass by a house where Washington was entertained in 1789. Sidney P. and Mrs. Emery, who have been living here for several years, are spending the winter in Savannah. A crowd accompanied their liner during the passage, lighting at times on the vessel, but failing to return with her. Dr. R. L. and Mrs. Emery of Rockport, Mass., accompanied by a couple of nurses, made us a flying visit recently.

If you want to see a streak of sunshine you need to meet Judge Henry A. Strate, author of the "Red Diary of a Real Boy," and several other interesting books. I had the pleasure of an introduction to him recently in his office here.

MRS. TARBOX THE CHOICE

Fryeburg Woman Likely To Be National President of the Ladies of the G. A. R.

The Ladies of the Grand Army tendered a reception and banquet to their national president, Mrs. Virginia McClure, of Peoria, Ill., at the Falmouth hotel, Portland, last Monday evening, which called out a very large gathering of friends from all over the State.

Mrs. McClure expressed herself as highly pleased with her reception in Maine and said that "it was indeed an honor to hold that office and there was not the least doubt in her mind but that great honor would come to Maine next year as Mrs. Wallace R. Tarbox of Fryeburg, national inspector, seemed to be the choice of all the many departments where she had visited. Mrs. McClure paid Mrs. Tarbox a most pleasing tribute.

Mrs. Tarbox was the next speaker and as usual delighted all present and plainly showed she would honor the high office if called to fill it. In closing Mrs. Tarbox thanked those who had spoken so confidently of her election and said: "We must, however, remember we have just had a Presidential election."

GINGLES' JINGLES

IMPORTANCE.

Oh, do not think the guy who's swelled all up on hot air stuff. St. Peter is not here to you and will not call your bluff; he's got you on the hip, old man, he'll shake you through the sieve—for you'll be small potatoes when it comes to take and give. With someone like the saint who talks unto your very soul, believe me, guy, you'll beat it through a mighty tiny hole; you puff and blow and swell up some down here upon the earth, and people stand in awe of you, and give you a wide berth. It may be that you're right at heart and not a selfish gink—but your inflated pomposity style inclines to make us think, that you are putting over bunk to boost yourself a few—not caring much for others, how they live or what they do. If you expect a crown, old man, when you have checked and gone, or want a friend or two on earth—cut out the stately con; help some poor mortal climb the hill, hand some poor boob a boost, make someone happy every day before you go to Rockland Garage Co.

COURSES IN AGRICULTURE

Maine College To Give Winter Instruction of Much Practical Value.

The College of Agriculture of the State University at Orono announces that short courses in dairying, general agriculture, horticulture and poultry keeping will be given this year as usual during January and February. The courses in dairying and general agriculture open Monday evening, Jan. 8, and run for four weeks, and the courses in horticulture and poultry open Feb. 5 and continue for three weeks.

These courses are free, the students having to pay only for railroad fare, room and meals. The courses are given by means of lectures, discussions and actual practice work in the subjects taught. The work is concentrated and deals in a practical manner with matters directly connected with the problems of the farming business. They are open to both men and women, and will prove a profitable investment to any person who may desire to make a thoroughly practical and concentrated study of such subjects as soils, soil fertility, fertilizers, adaptation of fertilizers to crop needs, cropping systems adapted to farming in Maine, care, feeding and breeding of farm animals, figuring and compounding of daily rations, testing milk, ripening cream, making butter, managing an orchard, growing small fruits, incubation, rearing chicks, feeding for egg production, poultry house construction, and the marketing of farm products.

A bulletin has just been issued which tells all about the short courses. This will be sent to any person on request.

THE COON

(With apologies to Walt Mason) My brother Bill once had a coon, as cute as he could be. He'd pat my face with both his paws, and stand and look at me as innocent as any lamb; but all the while that wretch would reach his hind leg down my coat as far as he could stretch and strip my pockets bare, and so I came to have the feeling, the more he loved me with his hands, the more he loved me with his teeth.

When Uncle Cyrus Dodge gets up in meeting Wednesday night, and jumps around and paws the air and shouts with all his might, and tells how good he is, and how he loves his fellow men, and tells us how he's cleaned and washed and scrubbed, then I always wonder if he's got a spanned horse to sell, and when at length he trades him off, how many lies he'll tell. Because you see, I know old Cy; I've known him many a year, and though some folks may be deceived, to me 'tis always clear that coons and men are much alike; the more they flourish round, to show you just how good they are, the more I've always found 'tis best to be a little shy. I recalled, you see, how far that coon's hind foot stretched out, while he was loving me. Adella F. Vearie.

ELKAR-URBAN COMPANY

At Park Theatre Monday Evening—Seven Keys To Baldpate.

"Seven Keys To Baldpate" is full of thrills, romance, escapes, perils, not to mention a fair sprinkling of nonsense and fun. It has a tense effect on the nerves, and is a compound of these elements that healthy people have and will always like in their amusements. For one thing, the hero begins by appearing to be a common place man; but presently it develops that he is a very brave individual even in the face of shots in the dark and a whole army of villains, all bent on stealing $200,000 of graft money from the city and from each other. The excitement takes place in a summer hotel, on the top of a mountain in a blinding snow storm. The play is full of chases after fortune, hair-breadth escapes, mysterious knots and laughs that shake the rafters. When the table turns on the wicked grafters the adventures and even the chief of police who proves to be as big a villain at heart as the others, and the two lovers are left in each other's arms, there is a surprise that can only be appreciated by seeing it at the Park Theatre, Monday evening, when the Elk-Urban Company opens their limited engagement. Bert Clark has bought a cow from Melvin Cline.

The writer saw an airplane between 10 and 11 o'clock Saturday evening, Nov. 25. It was out of doors and it was to the east of White Head. It had what looked to be a yellow colored light, that sometimes would look pink. I stood quite awhile watching these lights, went indoors and looked again it was gone. It is the second airplane I have seen. The other one I saw early in November. About 3 o'clock in the morning, all clear and starlight, I saw the machine over the Mosses Lakes.

And He Got It

"Just a moment," interrupted The Man, patiently, "I may have no objection to testing this article you are trying to substitute, all other things being equal—but are they?" For example, what I want can be used internally for coughs, colds, sore throat, cramps, chills, etc., as well as externally for sprains, strains, muscular rheumatism, various other aches, pains and almost any soreness anywhere. Now can you guarantee me this double value of internal and external use? Can you also guarantee that yours is the favorite prescription of an old family physician? Do you also guarantee that it has a wonderful record of over 100 years of splendid success? Do you also guarantee—

"Oh, of course," interposed the now embarrassed storekeeper, "I can't guarantee all that, but—"

"Then," said The Man, wearily, "give me my bottle of Johnson's Anodyne Liniment and let me be on my way." And he got it.

On each bird was inscribed the guest's name, and the part he or she was to play during the evening's entertainment.

A large turkey gobble was turned into the room, the party fright was at high pitch, until it was discovered that a sharp carving knife revealed a finely cooked bird. DON'T MISS IT

WATERMAN'S BEACH

Several deer have been seen about the village the past month and some of our cranks have had deer meat to pass around. One young buck was so tame that he looked into T. E. Wiley's store window. We don't remember seeing any deer about here for several years.

The deer is all out of the ground here. We needed an old bed but this morning to get green food for our biddies. Fred Munroe plowed for Dave Mamm last week on Millet Hill. Dave expects to get in some early garden truck so Lena can get a move on while hubby is out after those snappers next spring.

The lobster fishermen report a very good season's catch with a fair price, but they are up against quite a problem just now. A neighbor tells me that all kinds of twine and rigging is nearly double what it cost when he started, and out of over 100 traps he had put out since last April he expected to get but 15 back home this month. It costs $1.25 to rig a trap.

Eggs appear to be in the limelight just now as well as in water glass. It is barely possible the consumer thinks the hen man is on easy street these times. We have had 140 biddies to feed the past month, some 35 late hatched pullets among them, and they laid 55 dozen large, fresh eggs. We received an average of 47 cents a dozen in November, not the 70 cents that we read about. If any of our neighbors' hens have done any better we have not heard of it. We have kept a correct account for over seven years and the past month is the only November they ever paid their board bill. Mr. Prescott gets all the eggs he can purchase down this way and often had 100 dozen on his way home when he drove into our yard in the good old summer time. Now he has less than ten dozen.

The sea by the papers that California is sent wet. It is an old saying that the weather has great influence on the mind. We had a San Francisco letter from Mary Godfrey Drake last month and she said they had had a very foggy summer, but since the election it was just fine. Mary says she has friendly calls from Mrs. Thomas Ingraham, formerly of Rockland, who is over 80 years of age and is always anxious to see The Courier-Gazette that we send Mary.

YOU CAN'T FIND ANY DANDRUFF, AND HAIR STOPS COMING OUT.

Save Your Hair! Make it Thick, Wavy, Glossy and Beautiful All Once.

Try as you will, after an application of Danderine, you can not find a single trace of dandruff or falling hair and your scalp will itch, but what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use, when you see new hair, fine and downy at first—yes—but real new hair—growing all over the scalp.

No difference how dull, faded, brittle and scraggy, just moisten a cloth with Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, making one small strand at a time. The effect is immediate and amazing—your hair will be light, fluffy and wavy, and have an appearance of abundance; an incomparable lustre, softness and luxuriance, the beauty and shimmer of true hair health.

Get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and prove that your hair is as pretty and soft as any—that it has been neglected or injured by careless treatment. A 25-cent bottle will double the beauty of your hair.

SCENE FROM "SEVEN KEYS TO BALDPATE"

BROWN IN NEW MEXICO

Former Rockland Boy Doing Sober Duty Down On the Border.

A former Rockland man who is still with the American forces on the Mexican border, is Ralph W. Brown, who was a member of Co. H, this city, at the time of its disbandment, and who subsequently held a regimental staff position. He was in the employ of the Amoskeag Mills in Manchester, N. H., when the Mexican trouble reached its crisis. These mills employ 20,000 persons, and Mr. Brown held a responsible position as inspector of cloth. The corporation showed a liberal and loyal spirit by continuing the salaries of the operatives who went to the front. Under those conditions Mr. Brown immediately volunteered, and is serving as first sergeant and drill master of the New Hampshire Field Hospital, Bellingham, New Mexico.

To Charles Emery, with whom Sergeant Brown has had frequent correspondence during the summer, The Courier-Gazette is indebted for some interesting information.

Deming styles itself as "Center of the New State's Prosperity"—a purely prosperous people, the center of the most successful irrigation districts in the United States, where water of extreme purity is pumped from the underflow at a shallow depth. The city boasts four strong banks, schools, churches, electric lights and power system, miles of cement walks, two of the liveliest weekly newspapers in the Southwest, and the most delightful and beautiful climate on the American continent. Oh, yes! and it's the center of the world-famous Mimbres Valley and chief railway center of the Sunshine State. An airplane view (birds-eye view) shows no more obsolete shows that it is a well planned city, with avenues named for minerals, and streets named for trees.

Sergeant Brown's correspondence with Mr. Emery begins with the arrival of the Field Hospital Corps in Deming, Oct. 22, having completed a 3000-mile journey in excellent health and spirits. The corps was assigned to a position alongside the Delaware camp, in which 4000 troops were stationed.

The trip South was not without its interesting incidents. Following a narrow escape from collision with a freight train at the point of entrance into Kansas, the boys passed through Columbus, N. M., on the last lap of their journey and gave it more than passing notice. It was Gen. Pershing's base, and the settlement that Villa had raided a few months before.

Under date of Oct. 26, Sergeant Brown wrote: "We had a great trip, and I enjoyed every moment of it. We came in tourist cars, and had a nice bed at night, which seemed good to us after sleeping on army cots four months. We saw lots of game on the way here, prairie dogs, rabbits, quail, hawks and buzzards. We stopped at a number of places, Cleveland for half an hour, Chicago for an hour, Kansas City, Mo., for half an hour, and El Paso, Texas for half an hour. I went around each place as much as possible. At Chicago we came through the stockyards, and stopped every few minutes; one of the stockmen gave our cook four live pigs, but the major made us give them up, as they were unsanitary. "It is very warm here during the day, but cold at night, and we have stoves in our tents now. We have 45 riding horses and 32 mules. We went to hear those mules sing. Boys in the Harmony Quartet, a mile to Battle-sake, tarantulas and scorpions are very plentiful here. Shall I send you one of each as a souvenir? A fellow in the Delaware Regiment shot seven jack-rabbits yesterday afternoon, about two miles from our camp. One of the soldiers from the 1st Arkansas Regiment got bitten by a rattlesnake, but is recovering. He had caught the snake and was holding it in his hand, but it bit him on the leg. I have caught lots of lizards and lizards, but not seen any rattlers yet."

"Had jack-rabbits for dinner today," writes Sergeant Brown, under date of

Nov. 5. "One of our boys shot two, less than half a mile from our camp."

Next comes a souvenir post card dated Fort Bayard, Nov. 12. "We stopped here last night on our 45-day hike to Silver City," writes our soldier. "In the first three days we covered 70 miles. We have about 4000 men and 50 mule wagons, and our line is over two miles long. One night we camped on a ranch which had a boiling brook, running about 100 yards into a small lake. The water was almost boiling hot, and we had a fine time bathing in it. This place is a hospital for soldiers, old and young, and there are about 800 patients here now."

Nov. 19 is the date of another post card, which says that the soldiers marched 150 miles in ten days. Sergeant Brown's last letter to Mr. Emery was dated Nov. 22, and says in part:

"Received The Courier-Gazette's letter to me, and it seems mighty good to hear from your old home town, when you are 3000 miles away in a hard, dangerous country. Our hike was cut down to ten days on account of the cold weather and sickness. Two members of our brigade died during the journey. After leaving Fort Bayard three days behind, I was sent back to Santa Fe, where a horse which had been left, I went up there on the railroad, and rode the horse back to Deming, 75 miles, and did it in less than two days. Sheridan's Ride had nothing on that one, believe me."

"I saw hundreds of rabbits and dozens of flocks of quail, two coyotes and a small wolf. If I had been possessed of a shotgun I could have killed game enough to last our company a week. I fired two shots at a coyote, but missed him, as I had only a revolver."

WESTERN APPLES NIPPED

Based on reports from all apple districts of the Northwest, sales agency officials in Hood River, Oregon, estimated the aggregate losses to the apple industry by the cold wave which had prevailed for nearly a week at $1,500,000. The frost, it was said, had made unfit for shipment approximately 1,500,000 boxes of apples in the four States of Oregon, Washington, Idaho and Montana. The loss in the Hood River district is placed at 10 to 15 per cent of the total crop.

SARDINE PACK FELL OFF

But Prices Help Offset the Reduction—Inspection Has Been Rigid.

The closing of the sardine canning season on the Maine coast, while it carries with it a feeling of disappointment to the packers, on account of the severity of the herring and the consequent shortage of the output of canned goods, provides a feeling of much satisfaction to Chief A. M. G. Soule of the Bureau of Inspection, Department of Agriculture, owing to the superior quality of the goods, due largely to the efficiency system of inspection enforced by the Maine authorities, supported by the inspection of the National Cannery Association.

The "red feed," a little fish loved by the herring, but objected to by the pure food people as an accompanying article in canned sardines, has been carefully guarded against and the result has been a great improvement in the quality. About 900 headsheds of herring, worth on an average about $15 per headshed, have been condemned this fall, representing a loss of about $13,500 to the factories, boatmen and weir owners. It also reduced the output about 220,000 cases of 400 cans each, and shut off estimated profits of about $11,000. The total pack is estimated at about 1,500,000 cases, or a shortage of about 45 per cent.

The Bureau of Inspection, on the other hand, is pleased to learn that the season will be a prosperous one for the canners, owing to the high prices received for the goods. The European war has caused a great shortage of the product, and the American canners have had to fill in the gap left by the French, Norwegian and other foreign packers. All of our pack is selling at good prices, the best for years. Last week's quotations included:

Keyless one-quarter oil sardines, $1 per case; pasteboard carton goods, 100-can cases, $1.50; mustard sardines, 50-can cases, $3.75.

It will thus be seen that, with all the shortage of the fish and other difficulties, losses, etc., the Maine sardine packer may well feel pleased with the season's work and in the end feel thankful for the strict inspection rules and regulations imposed upon them by the Maine Bureau of Inspection, supported by the fine work of the National Cannery Association—Kennebec Journal.

CHEAPENING THE DOLLAR

Correspondent Says the People Are Deceived by Wall Street.

Editor of The Courier-Gazette.—If the inflation of the currency should continue at the present rate for ten years, the per capita circulation will be $75 and the value of the dollar compared with that of 1900 will be about 30 cents. In other words, the purchasing power of money will have been reduced 70 per cent.

As inflation tends to increase business and thereby increase the demand for money, its value perhaps does not depreciate at the rate of inflation.

In the 70s, when the finance question was before the people, Wall Street deceived them by causing them to believe that the question was, whether we should have an inflated currency with cheap money, or a suitable one with honest value money. The real question then as now was this: Who shall issue the currency and control its volume—Wall Street or the people?

In the 60s the currency question again came before the people. At that time the real issue was whether Wall Street or the silver barons should issue the currency. Again the people, most of them, were deceived and fought the battle over a 100-cent and a 50-cent dollar.

When the Bland silver bill was before Congress, demanding that the government coin 24 millions of silver dollars annually, Wall Street congressmen opposed it, claiming that the factory girl who received a dollar a day would be paid in a 50-cent dollar and tears of sympathy flowed for the poor factory girl. Today the factory girl is paid in 50-cent dollars. Do you see Wall Street orators shedding tears for the factory girl? Not a yip against cheap money from Wall Street, when itself does the inflating and profits by it.

There are a few who begin to see the real cause of inflated prices. Many will adhere to the old finance system after it shall have been exploded. They remind one of monkeys in South America. The hunters of that country put corn in bottles and make the bottles fast. When the monkey sees the corn he puts his hand into the bottle and closes it on the corn. He cannot withdraw his hand while it is closed. When the hunter comes the monkey is so persistent in his nature that he will not give up his hold and is easily cured.

These old fossils will hold their grip on this relic of barbarism, metallic money, until Wall Street captures their last dollar.

Guess I shall have to give the remedy for inflation in my next. C. A. Miller.

Col. Roosevelt Discusses Election, Which He Thinks Was Turned By People Who Voted On Surface Appearance.

The Metropolitan Magazine in its Christmas number, publishes under the heading "The Election," the views of Col. Theodore Roosevelt on the result. The article, which is copyrighted by the Metropolitan Magazine company, is subjoined.

When I write this it appears as if Mr. Wilson had carried the Electoral college by a small majority. The extreme closeness of the election, rendering us at this moment unable to state without question who the next President is to be, while the Senate is Democratic and the House closely divided, is not a satisfactory outcome of the campaign. To men who feel as the present writer does, and who hold their convictions with a fervor of intensity, and who wished to see the American people repudiate Mr. Wilson's policies by an overwhelming majority, the disappointment is naturally keen.

As in all such cases, the result is more easy to explain than it had been so far. The appeal made for Mr. Wilson was one which would tell very strongly with good, honest citizens whose preoccupation with their own pursuits was such that they could not be expected to look deeply into our international relations and the general world conditions. This appeal was in its essence that he should vote for Mr. Wilson because he had kept us out of war and because we are prosperous. It would have been highly creditable to the average man if he had possessed the vision and disinterestedness to disregard such an appeal; but the fact that he did not disregard it merely means that we were not able to make the issue clear to his eyes. It does not mean that he would remain morally obtuse if he could be shown in convincing fashion where his duty lay.

No sensible man wishes to go to war if he can honorably keep out of it; and when to this natural inclination is added the fact that the man is very busy and is puzzled about the issues involved, he is certain to cast his vote on the side that he is told will guarantee peace.

Evidently people tend to look at the dreadful crimes committed in Belgium and Armenia, in the sinking of the Lusitania, and in Mexico as analogous to disasters such as an earthquake or a fire; as properly exciting a discreet sympathy, but not as calling for any action which would jeopardize the comfort and well-being of those not immediately concerned. I do not approve of this attitude. I am merely stating it, insofar as our people permanently preserve it, they will steadily tend to the Chinese level. We may need a serious shock to wake them from it. Yet I am sure that it is possible to wake them, and that when thoroughly roused they have the further possibility of showing the great qualities of the men and women of the Revolution and of the Civil War. As in every man does, and ought to, prize a material well-being. To prize it is only wrong when it is permitted to get out of perspective, and to become the sole end of life, instead of merely one of the means to the end—important, but to be sacrificed without hesitation by all lofty souls, when its retention is clearly incompatible with some higher good.

We are at the moment well off. The cost of living is very high, and the government is rapidly becoming unable to pay its debts, but business men, farmer and wage worker are all profitably busy. Under such circumstances only men of unusual insight and foresight will make a political change because of just concern about future conditions. They do not pay much heed to the forecasts of politicians.

We have permitted our politicians, our candidates for public office, to treat the promises made in party platforms and on the stump with a cynical indifference which now reflects itself in a similar indifference on the part of the voters. When public men are readily pardoned for making any promise which they think will secure public favor before election, and for repudiating any promise which they think it convenient to keep after election, it is impossible to expect that the voters will not finally grow skeptical about all promises, prophecies and statements made during the course of a campaign.

In addition to these counter-claims, there was the fact that the Adams bill unquestionably produced a great effect in Mr. Wilson's favor in all labor circles. It was taken as an indication that in any conflict between capital and labor, Mr. Wilson would support labor, without an over-nice scrutiny of the merits of the case or the future effects of his action.

Moreover, there was a real blurring of the issues, because for the first three years of Mr. Wilson's term the leaders among his nominal party opponents either feared to criticize him at all, or else split, half of them assailing him because on some given policy he had gone too far, and the other half before he had not gone far enough. When a public man who had for three years praised each of Mr. Wilson's acts separately, turned round and during the campaign condemned them all collectively, he did not carry conviction. Nor was it possible to exert the full opposition strength against him when the leadership for three years had been such that until the campaign opened it was not possible to foretell exactly what the opposition would be asked to take.

"We who supported Mr. Hughes will always be glad that we supported him. We believe that his triumph and the national welfare were closely interwoven. We now, for the sake of the nation, earnestly hope Mr. Wilson will meet with every success in the task ahead of him."

TO SATISFY SALVAGE CLAIM
Gasoline Schooner Casarca III. Sold By U. S. Marshal At Vinahaven.

The gasoline schooner Casarca III, which was wrecked on Island Levee, near Vinahaven, Oct. 23, was sold at U. S. Marshal's sale Tuesday to the former owners. The boat itself brought $405, and the engine $150. The libellants are Charles E. Williams, F. S. Walls, William Clatter, Ralph Clatter, Fred Clatter, Luther Burns and Ansel Philbrook, all of Vinahaven, who found the wrecked craft in danger of becoming a total loss, and towed it to Vinahaven, where it was beached. They brought proceedings in U. S. District Court, Portland, to see how much was due them for salvage.

UNCLE SAM, RUNSELLER

The liquor mail order house is the foulest of the breed. They are eaters of everything. The saloon may not victimize children or consume the drunkard's flickering remnant of life without breaking law. But the dealer who hires Uncle Sam for two cents to serve as his agent and solicitor is under no such restraint. The blood of a little girl or a high school boy goes into the dish together with the happiness and future of the young married woman, who is induced by pictured lies to believe that beer is a food and a tonic for her nursing babe, that her husband is absent in his objective and there is no reason whatever why she should not avail herself of the kindness of people who are glad to ship liquors in packages made up to resemble books or shoes.

These vile people walk the mails as harlots walk the streets, luring the innocent and the ignorant to disease and disaster and death.

LOSSES ARE ENORMOUS

Berlin Says Allies Have Lost 15,000,000—Nothing Said About the Central Powers, However.

The total losses of the entente allies in the present war have been 15,000,000 men, according to figures quoted in an Overseas News Agency statement Tuesday.

"Of this number," says the report, "Great Britain has lost 1,200,000 men, Russia 8,500,000, France 3,700,000, Italy 800,000, Serbia 480,000, Belgium 220,000 and Rumania 200,000."

"These figures admit of curious conclusions. Thus, the losses of Serbia, Belgium and Rumania are three quarters those of the British and as in the Rumanian losses only those of the first two months are included, these three small nations have in fact made sacrifices as large as those of the great British empire. Italy has suffered already losses equal to two-thirds of those of the British, although she entered the war ten months later than Great Britain. The French losses are three times as great as the British, and form one-quarter of the total for the whole entente, while the Russian losses are seven times greater than the British which comprise only eight per cent of the total, although in them the losses of the Canadians, Austrians, New Zealanders, South Africans, Indians and others are included."

"CASCARETS" BEST IF HEADACHY, BILIOUS, SICK, CONSTIPATED

Best for Liver and Bowels, Bad Breath, Bad Colds, Sour Stomach.

Get a 10-cent box. Sick headache, biliousness, coated tongue, head and nose clogged up with a cold—always trace this to torpid liver; delayed, fermenting food in the bowels or sour, gassy stomach.

Poisonous matter clogged in the intestines, instead of being cast out of the system is re-absorbed into the blood. When this poison reaches the delicate brain tissue it causes congestion and that dull, throbbing, sickening headache.

Cascarets immediately cleanse the stomach, remove the sour, undigested food and foul gases, take the excess bile from the liver and carry out all the constipated waste matter and poisons in the bowels.

A Cascaret tonight will surely straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep—a 10-cent box cures constipation, breath, right complexion rosy and your liver and bowels regular for months.

"GOING SOME" IN 1912

When the Round Trip, Warren and Boston, Took About Two Months.

A correspondent calls The Courier-Gazette's attention to the fact that the automobile time between this city and Boston, made by a Rockland man in October (namely 4 hours 53 minutes), as well as the fact that the run to Boston between breakfast and supper is now a matter of common occurrence and causes no comment, furnishes sharp contrast with the methods of locomotion a century ago. Illustrative of the point she supplies us with the following extract from Sibley's "History of the Town of Union":

"During the war of 1812, when the British had possession of all the United States territory east of Penobscot River, many goods were carted from Hampden and Frankfort to Boston by residents in Warren and the vicinity. Isaac Hills and John Burkett, of Union, engaged in this business in 1814 and 1815. One load, previously contracted for, was carried from Union to Boston, after the arrival of the news of peace. Duties were high. A man on the British side of the Penobscot, according to an agreement previously made, sent goods to another on the American side. A third person seized them as smuggled property, and had them seized. The person to whom they were sent then gave bonds for the whole amount for which they were seized, sent them to Boston, and paid the bonds, the amount of which was less than the duties would have been. The journey to and from Boston required about two months, and traveling fifteen miles was considered a good day's work. A load generally contained two and a half tons. It was drawn by six oxen, for eighty dollars a ton, in wagons covered with boards."

FROM WET TO DRY
Massachusetts Cities Added To No License Column—Did Ball Sunday Do It?

No license forces gained four new cities in the elections held in 15 Massachusetts cities Tuesday. Fall River, Haverhill and New Bedford, according to a New Bedford report, were shifted from the wet to the dry column. The license forces were not successful in effecting any changes, Brockton, Salem, Cambridge and Waltham remaining no license.

New Bedford, while keeping to the wet column did so by a greatly reduced margin. The vote count for license last year was out from 329 to 406 after a sensational campaign in which Protestant and Catholic clergymen united to make the city dry.

The shift of Fall River into the dry column marked a long, persistent fight that has been waged by clergy of all denominations against the liquor interests, and is the first victory for the no-license forces since 1908.

Haverhill's change to the dry column divided interest with the defeat of Mayor Albert L. Bartlett.

Taunton went into the dry column after 16 years of the licensed sale of liquor.

Leominster, after spending a year and a half in the wet column resumed its old custom of declaring against license.

Only eleven of the cities elected mayors this year and of this number not one was a Democrat. The Republicans were successful in seven contests, the other four bearing no national party designation.

A PERSISTENT SUICIDE
Former Friendship Man Kills Himself In New Harbor On Third Trial.

Falling to cause instant death by discharging both barrels of his shotgun into his face Sunday afternoon, Lincoln W. Parsons, 46, New Harbor fisherman, staggered 500 yards to his fish house, locked himself in, and jamming a third shell into the gun, blew the top of his head off.

William Blaisdell, another fisherman, saw a part of the tragedy from his boat a short distance from the shore, but was unable to interfere.

Despondency brought on by ill health and the fear that, because of the increasing cost of living, he would be unable to properly care for his family during the coming winter, is held responsible for the act of Mr. Parsons, who was a former resident of Friendship. A wife, three daughters, one of whom is a teacher in the public schools of Round Pond and a mother, Mrs. Ellen Parsons, survive him.

This is the last week of the Security Trust Co.'s Christmas Club. Checks will be mailed the 12th.

Busiest Men In Country Find Time to Go to Church. Do You?

NO man is too busy, no man's time so precious, that he cannot afford to spend a small part of one day in seven in the house of God.

Don't lie in bed on the Sabbath morn. The church services are not at an early hour. Six days in the week a man will rush for the office to be in time for business. That is all right. He should be prompt in his business duties. He should also be prompt in his business with God. It is true that this is a rush age. But the biggest men in the country, the men whose services are worth as much in an hour as the ordinary man's are in a day, may be seen for an hour and more every Sabbath in church. These men find time to GO TO CHURCH. They realize the seriousness of their obligation. They are not shirkers. They do not consider it a sign of weakness to be seen in church. They want to be seen there. All honor to these men.

WHEN YOU HEAR A MAN SAY THAT HE IS TOO BUSY TO GO TO CHURCH REASON WITH HIM. RECALL TO HIM THAT THE BUSIEST MEN IN THE COUNTRY MANAGE TO FIND TIME FOR DIVINE WORSHIP. IF YOU ARE HEALTHY AND PROSPEROUS GO TO CHURCH AND THANK GOD FOR HIS BLESSINGS. IF YOU ARE ILL AND IN WANT GO TO CHURCH AND PRAY TO GOD THAT YOUR CONDITION MAY BE IMPROVED, AND THAT REMINDS US HOW READY SOME PEOPLE ARE TO FORGET GOD AND HIS BLESSINGS WHEN THINGS ARE COMING THEIR WAY. IT IS ONLY WHEN MISFORTUNE COMES THAT THEY TURN TO GOD AND THE CHURCHES. THEN THEY NEED GOD AND THE CONSOLATION THAT THE CHURCH AFFORDS.

But, while God is merciful, he also is just. If, when people are prosperous and happy, they do not find time to visit the house of God it is not just that God should pour out his blessings and graces to them when misfortune comes.

Don't make the specious plea that you're too busy to GO TO CHURCH.
GO TO CHURCH next Sunday and every Sunday.

Congress Again On the Job

Some of the Important Matters It Must Consider.—President's Address Largely Devoted To Railroad Legislation.—Women In Congress.

Congress reassembled Monday with three months remaining in which to complete the legislative plans of the first administration of President Wilson.

With prospect of a much reduced majority in the new House, or possibly a lineup so close that Democratic control will be in doubt, administration leaders have laid their plans to work at high speed in the hope of enacting the most important part of their program before it is endangered in the Sixty-Fifth Congress.

Foremost is completion of President Wilson's railroad legislation program left unfinished at the last session with the passage of the Adamson Law. The remainder of the program, which the President will press, includes supplementary legislation to prevent such a nation-wide railway strike as was threatened last summer, or in fact a lockout, until the situation has been investigated.

Second in importance to the railway situation comes the agitation for a restriction of shipments of foodstuffs to Europe. Thousands of petitions asking for an embargo have been received by members of Congress and at the White House. In evidence also it is argued that the increased cost of living in the United States demands a restriction of shipments abroad. So far as has been disclosed President Wilson and members of the cabinet have no plans for acting on the subject, but it is known that various members of Congress intend to push the subject and it may develop a fight. Chairman Fitzgerald of the appropriation committee already has announced his intention of introducing a bill for a food embargo.

Woman suffragists, renewing their fight for passage of the Susan B. Anthony amendment to the constitution, have laid all the lines for their campaign, and it is possible that their demands may be crowded into the short time Congress has to deal with an important budget of legislation. Prohibitionists no less ardent than the suffragists, in their demand for a Federal amendment, are expected to begin their fight anew.

Monday's opening marks the closing of man's monopoly of membership in the House of Representatives. In the next Congress the clerks and the pages and the speaker will be calling: "The Lady from Montana."

Miss Jeannette Rankin, Republican, first woman elected to Congress, is expected to be in her seat then. She does not sit in the present session—although many uninformed expected to see her Monday—but comes in with the new Congress. When she does arrive the House will be confronted with revising its own rules to give her a place on the floor.

In the Senate there were three new members to take the oath of office, James E. Wilson of Indiana, Republican, taking the unexpired term of the late Senator Shively, Democrat, who was temporarily succeeded by Thomas Taggart. Bert M. Fernald, Republican, of Maine, was elected to the vacancy caused by the death of Senator Burleigh. William F. Kirby, Democrat, of Arkansas, was elected to fill the unexpired term of the late Senator Clarke.

President Wilson's address was wholly devoted to domestic subjects, principally the problem of railway legislation. The President not only renewed his recommendation for legislation to prevent a nation-wide railway strike or lockout before there has been opportunity for investigation, but defended it against the attack of organized labor as nothing arbitrary or unjust and the "justifiable safeguarding by society of the necessary processes of its very life."

Aside from recommendation for the passage of the Porter-Knox government bill, the corrupt practices bill and the Webb bill to legalize American collective selling agencies abroad, the President's address was devoted wholly to the railroad situation. The only feature which had not been forecast was the elimination of the proposal that Congress give explicit approval to consideration by the Interstate Commerce Commission of an increase in freight rates to meet additional expenditures by the railroads caused by the operation of the Adamson law.

The President took the position that "the power of the Interstate Commerce Commission to grant an increase of rates on the ground referred to is indisputably clear and a recommendation by the Congress with regard to such a matter might seem to draw in question the scope of the commission's authority or its inclination to do justice when there is no reason to doubt either."

The other recommendations on the railroad situation made in a special message during the last session, which were not put into law, were renewed. They include:

"Immediate provision for the enlargement and administrative reorganization of the Interstate Commerce Commission along the lines of the bill recently passed by the House of Representatives and now awaiting action by the Senate; in order that the commission may be enabled to deal with the many great and various duties now devolving upon it with a promptness and thoroughness which are, with its present constitution and means of action, practically impossible."

"An amendment of the existing federal statute which provides for mediation, conciliation and arbitration of such controversies now provided for them should fail, a full public investigation of the merits of every such dispute shall be instituted and com-

CONVICTS AND SINGLE TAX

Warden Waterhouse and Ensign Otis Discuss Timely Questions At Meeting of Gloucester Social Center.

At the Gloucester Social Center Friday evening, about 100 persons heard the single tax system explained by Ensign Otis of Rockland, and listened to an address by Warden E. H. Waterhouse of the Maine State Prison on "Privileges for Convicts."

Mr. Otis said that the scope of single tax possibilities is extremely wide. He believes that every man has the right to everything he produces. Society has no right to take from him what he has acquired by his production. The population works night and day to increase values of land held by land speculators. "Single tax" believes that all land in the country is, and should be, the property of the whole; believes that tax should be levied from land owners and all land rent should go to the government. Land should always be available to the one who would develop it. He would not pay rent without making a productive use. Land values should be determined by its demand.

Warden Waterhouse thinks there should be an amendment to the State laws, whereby prison officials should be appointed regardless of politics and should be retained as long as they make good. He believes that the privileges granted to inmates, such as the institution of the prison band, etc., is the greatest thing toward prison reform. He believes the prison should be the best temporary home they have ever had. His aim, he says, is to make good men out of bad men. He hopes to live to see the day when the prison cells shall be of suitable size for men to exercise in, and he thinks that a mess room should be established. There are now 217 inmates at the prison, and the warden believes that at least 80 per cent were brought there through drink.

Mrs. Monica Pillsbury of Rockland sang three solos, with Miss Grace Follett accompanying. Miss Eva L. Sherer sang two selections. Mrs. Nancy Tripp of Rockport asked a series of questions of general information, and these questions were answered by people in the audience. The Social Center now has a list of 65 active members. More members are sought.

The speakers looked for the next meeting, Dec. 15, are President Verrill of Bucksport Seminary, whose subject will be "Why Don't People Go To Church?" and Arthur A. Heald, State Field Secretary, Y. M. C. A. The High Schools of Rockland, Thomaston, Camden and Rockport are expected to have a debate. There will be the usual musical attractions.
